WEST HARTFORD, CONN. - Saint Joseph College recently presented the eighth season of its Arts Integration and Multiple Intelligences Program (AIMI) culminating with A Sense of Wonder: A Celebration of Science and the Arts. This spirited dance performance included original choreography, colorful costumes and scenery that depicted various aspects of science such as DNA coming alive, electromagnets, robots, a flying airplane, systems of the body, plus much more! Pictured here is the energetic finale featuring all show participants on stage in The Bruyette Athenaeum's Hoffman Auditorium.

The performance was directed and choreographed by Kay Gayner of the National Dance Institute (NDI) in New York City and conceived by Oscar and Emmy Award winner Jacques d'Amboise H'03 who serves as artist-in-residence. AIMI is unmatched by other summer arts opportunities in combining both instruction and show preparation within a short time frame; 50 children and 30 Saint Joseph College graduate students participated in the program.

Saint Joseph College, founded in 1932 by the Sisters of Mercy to provide higher education opportunities for women, is a comprehensive institution serving women from diverse backgrounds and religious traditions. More than 22 majors and six pre-professional programs are available plus accelerated bachelor's to master's degrees. Responsive to the evolving educational needs of the community, the School of Graduate and Professional Studies offers both women and men graduate degree programs including: management, counseling, education, and nursing along with online programs in biology, biochemistry and nutrition. In addition, the undergraduate Weekend Program for Adult Learners, professional certificate programs relevant to today's workforce and other continuing co-educational learning opportunities are available. In the fall of 2011, the Saint Joseph College School of Pharmacy, the first doctoral program in the College's 79-year history, welcomes its first class to Hartford 21 on Trumbull Street in downtown Hartford.
